WORLD FEDERATION OF ROSE SOCIETIES

INTRODUCTION

One of the most important functions of the World Federation of Rose Societies, as stated in our Constitution, is "To encourage and facilitate the interchange of information about and knowledge of the rose between national rose societies". The World Federation of Rose Societies Rose Directory attempts to do that.

Our aim is to gather together the most important rose information from each of the thirty-nine member countries that make up the WFRS. This is information that is commonly known by members of each national rose society about roses in their own country, but it is information that is hard to come by for other rose lovers. We hope that this book will make it easier to find roses and rose people around the world.

The data in this book has been provided by the member societies of the WFRS and may be copied and distributed by them in any manner they see fit. Our only aim is to further the cause of the rose throughout the world.

This project was first purposed at the World Rose Convention in Christchurch, New Zealand in November, 1994. Milly Weyermann of Switzerland, Bunny Skran of the U.S.A. and I worked together to decide on the information to be gathered and how it would be presented. John Mattia of the U.S.A. designed the output layouts and did the desktop publishing. The enthusiasm and hard work of this small group will earn them a debt of gratitude from rosarians around the world.

The accuracy of the information that follows is dependent on the data provided by the member societies of the WFRS. We trust that the member societies will help us to correct any inaccuracies.

We hope this book widens your horizons in the rose world, and we welcome any comments and suggestions you may have for future issues.

—Ethel Freeman

Award of Garden Excellence to outstanding rose gardens

1995 La Roseraie du Val de Marne.....L'Hay-les-Roses, France
www.roseraieduvaldemarne.com/roseraie_internet/

The world's oldest existing garden devoted exclusively to roses celebrated its centenary in 1994. Situated at L'Hay-les-Roses, it was created by architect Eduard André and rosarian Jules Graveraux, who assembled a collection of all species and varieties known at the time. Together they created a rose garden of historical value and breathtaking beauty.

In 1968 ownership of the garden passed to the municipality of Val de Marne, which has conscientiously continued the maintenance and renewal of the collection while encouraging public participation in this setting of unrivaled charm.

1996 Il Roseto Botanico 'Carla Fineschi'.....Cavriglia, Italy
www.rosetofineschi.it

Professor Gianfranco Fineschi started collecting roses 30 years ago and today he has one of the world's largest private collections - more than 6500 varieties, each represented by a single plant. In this living museum the genus Rosa is presented from a historical and a botanical point of view. Species, sub-species and later hybrids are systematically presented, while climbers and ramblers form 'walls' between the scientific divisions. Many of the beds of modern varieties are grouped according to their hybridizers.

In this garden overlooking the hills of Tuscany one may trace the history of the rose from antiquity to the present day while marveling at the beauty of the garden itself.

1998 The Garden of Roses at Hex Castle.....Hex, Belgium www.hex.be/

Prince Bishop Velbruck constructed this historical site in 1770. The gardens are of a formal Renaissance style while the surrounding parkland reflects the 'natural' English style. About 250 varieties of roses are found throughout the property.

Since 1970 Countess Michel d'Ursel renewed and increased the collection of roses. Some bushes are originals that date back to the construction of the castle. Others are plants that the Countess d'Ursel brought back from her travels to replace those that had died. She also added many modern varieties, but always those that were in harmony with these gracious surroundings.

2000 The City of Belfast International Rose Garden, Sir Thomas & Lady Dixon Park.....Belfast, Northern Ireland

Sam McGredy IV had a dream of an International Rose Trial Garden in Northern Ireland. In the winter of 1963/64 several prominent horticulturists, including Sam and fellow rose breeder Pat Dickson, brought the idea forward and selected a comparatively new park to be the venue of what has become a great rose garden and trial ground.

Sir Thomas & Lady Dixon Park was gifted to the Belfast City Council by Lady Edith Stewart Dixon to perpetuate the long association of her husband and herself with the City of Belfast.

The first roses were planted in 1964 and the Trial roses were judged for the first time in the summer of 1965. Since then the Garden has won acclaim, not only for its thousands of roses but for its fine setting of rolling lawns and splendid trees.

The property is owned and maintained by Belfast City Council's Parks and Amenities Section under Maurice Parkinson. The Rose Society of Northern Ireland, founded by Craig Wallace in 1964, provides the permanent panel of judges.

2003 Rosarium Sangerhausen .....Sangerhausen, Germany
www.europa-rosarium.de/cms/1/?i=1.0.0.0.1..79039c600bcac7f4f5ec2c39ec345cca.uk

Rosarium Sangerhausen is one of the two great European rose collections. (The other is La Roseraie de l'Hay du Val de Marne.) It is a living history of the Rose. With over 60,000 roses, 6300 cultivars and more than 500 species roses, it is one of the major repositories of the genus Rosa. Many varieties exist only in this garden. Consequently it is an important research and budwood source.

Located in the former East Germany, it suffered from many years of neglect after the Second World War. Since German reunification it has made significant strides in rejuvenation and in 2003 it celebrated its 100th Anniversary.

2003 Victoria State Rose Garden .....Victoria, Australia
http://vicstaterosegarden.com.au

The Victoria State Rose Garden contains over 5000 roses within the design of a heraldic Tudor rose. The design of the garden is innovative and in its entirety contains many extravagant features including The Tudor Rose, The Heritage Rose Border, The Federation Leaf and the David Austin Bud.

The five petals of The Tudor Rose feature bush and standard Hybrid Teas and Floribundas. There are also Rambling and Climbing roses and weeping standards.

The Heritage Rose border is 400 metres long and contains old and species roses. The Federation Leaf showcases Australian-bred roses and The David Austin Bud is home to 50 fragrant cultivars.

2003 The Rose Garden at Vrijbroek Park.....Mechelen, Belgium
www.provant.be/vrije_tijd/domeinen/vrijbroekpark/tuinen/rozentuin/

The Rose Garden at Vrijbroek Park consists of three parts: the original formal rose garden, a garden devoted to the history of the rose and a garden where roses are planted following their botanical classification.

Vrijbroek Park, acquired by the government in 1929, was designed as a very formal 19th century landscape park and the one and a half hectare rose garden became its centerpiece. In addition to the 122 rose beds there are standard roses, weeping standards, Climbers, espaliers of lime trees, box parterres and yew pyramids.

In 1994 a second rose garden was opened. This garden allows one to walk through the evolution and history of the rose. Mr. Louis Lens, the renowned rose breeder, provided great support by donating his collection of Old Rose varieties to this garden.

Since then a third garden has been added which showcases the wild roses of Belgium. Here roses are planted according to their botanical classification.

2003 The Rose Garden at the Montreal Botanical Garden .....Montreal, Canada
www2.ville.montreal.qc.ca/jardin/en/jardin_virtuel/jardins/roseraie.htm

The Rose Garden at the Montreal Botanical Garden is very modern in design. Unlike a traditional rose garden, the 10,000 roses in its collection are laid out in winding beds in a natural setting of trees and shrubs and provide a symphony of color in a natural setting.

The original section contains mass plantings of many modern varieties not fully hardy in Canada's climate. Covered with huge polyfoam blankets during the winter, they provide the general public with valuable lessons on winter care of roses in a northern climate.

The new section of the garden showcases species, Old Garden Roses and hardy modern Shrub roses. These include Canada's "Explorer" and "Parkland roses, Buck and Austin roses and many others.

2003 Rosenneuheitengarten Beutig ..... Baden-Baden, Germany

Rosenneuheitengarten Beutig is administered by the city of Baden-Baden and has conducted international rose trials for over 20 years. The garden was started in 1979 and completed in 1981. A flower festival (Landesgartenschau) has been held there every year by the city of Baden-Baden.

The trial garden is divided into four squares, each with some 120 varieties planted with roses for competition over a period of four years. Hard paths and grass surround each square.
The 5000 plants in the garden include Shrub, Miniature, Floribunda and Hybrid Tea roses. Climbers and Ramblers cascade over rose arches and fences. There is also a collection of David Austin (English) roses and an area devoted to past trial winners.

2003 The Wohl Rose Park of Jerusalem ..... Jerusalem. Israel

The Wohl Rose Park of Jerusalem is a large municipal public park devoted to roses and maintained to the highest standards. It covers 19 acres and has a wide range of rose varieties (about 400 varieties and 15,000 plants.) Expansive, informal beds dominate the landscape. Probably the only rose park of its kind in the Middle East, it prospers in a hot Mediterranean climate where there is no rainfall in summer.

The rose park includes the Garden of Nations, which is made up of sections donated by countries or communities around the world. Each section has rose varieties characteristic of or grown in, the respective country. The park also has an Experimental Section where new varieties of roses are tested for their suitability for public and private gardens in Israel.

2003 Il Roseto 'Niso Fumagalli' ..... Monza, Italy
www.airosa.it/

Il Roseto 'Niso Fumagalli is the display garden of the Associazione Italiana della Rosa. It is also a famous international Trials garden where the emphasis on perfume is a cardinal factor in judging rose varieties.

In 1964 Niso Fumagalli persuaded the Municipality of Monza to provide the newly formed Associazione Italiana della Rosa with space for a "paradisiacal" garden in front of the abandoned Villa Reale, where once Eugéne de Beauhernais, Empress Josephine's son, had lived as Viceroy of Italy.

From the outset, Niso Fumagalli insisted on the importance of the garden as a Trials ground. Because of his belief in the importance of perfume in roses, the perfume prize, "La Corona della Regina Teodolinda" is the most important prize awarded at these Monza Trials.

More than just a Trials ground, Il Roseto 'Niso Fumagalli' is also a beautiful display garden with standards, climbers, pillars, shrub and heritage roses.

2003 Flower Festival Commemorative Park ..... Gifu, Japan
www.hanafes.jp/hanafes/english.htm

Flower Festival Commemorative Park is one of the most magnificent rose gardens in Japan, with 7000 varieties and 30,000 plants. It consists mainly of two outstanding gardens. The first is the Rose Theme Garden that contains 14 themed gardens such as the Fragrant Rose Garden, the Royal Rose Garden and the Blue Rose Garden. The second is the World Rose Garden with roses gathered from all over the world and planted by country. There are also other unique areas called “The Path of Old Roses” and “The Valley of Species Roses”.

Visitors are warmly greeted by a profusion of vibrant colors from these varied collections of roses.

2003 Dugald MacKenzie Rose Gardens..... Palmerston North, New Zealand

New Zealand has a climate that is very favourable for rose growing and the long growing season results in high levels of growth and abundant flowers. This can be seen at its best in the Dugald MacKenzie Rose Gardens.

The Dugald MacKenzie Rose Gardens are divided into three main areas. The Plant Variety Rights (PVR) rose variety reference collection is at one end. The central section features roses in formal rectangular beds arranged in a circle around a central water feature. The other end of the garden holds the trial beds for the National Society of New Zealand's International Rose Trials.

The International Rose Trial Grounds are now in their 34th year and of world repute. A special noticeboard explains to visitors how the trials are conducted, and the winning roses are kept in the gardens for six years.

2003 Fresh Woods.....Elgin, South Africa

Fresh Woods, the private garden of Peter and Barbara Knox-Shaw, contains a remarkable rose collection of both species and old and new hybrids, many raised from seed from the wild or from cuttings of wild-collected species.

This garden is particularly valuable for the conservation of old roses from the Cape and for preserving collections of wild roses. Although a private garden, it is open regularly. It known throughout the world and is a source of propagation material and a centre for the exchange of rare and valuable varieties.

In this remarkable private garden, begun in the 1950's, roses are planted informally. They cover old apple trees, climb along fences and are mixed with other shrubs and herbaceous perennials.

Species from the warmer parts of Asia have done superbly well, wild Rosa gigantea, Rosa longicuspis from Yunnan, Rosa cymosa, wild forms of Rosa banksiae and the original form of Rosa chinensis var spontanea. Other rare species that thrive are several forms of Rosa abyssinica from Ethiopia and the wild Rosa gallica. Cultivars of old China roses and ramblers have done equally well.

2003 Inez Parker Memorial Rose Garden.....San Diego, United States of America

The Inez Parker Memorial Rose Garden was carefully planned to be a model municipal rose garden that would stand the test of time in good as well as hard times of municipal and park department funding. It was planned to be of modest size capable of being staffed by one full-time gardener. It was placed in the most prominent part of Balboa Park for the maximum enjoyment by the public and for exposure to critical review so that it could not be ignored if it were not well tended.

The garden is unique in America because the first bloom occurs about April 10 and the garden is rarely out of fine colour through the end of November. The garden is a popular wedding location, television site and teaching tool for rose horticulture.

2003 The Gardens of the American Rose Society.....Shreveport, United States of America
www.ars.org/?page_id=25

The Gardens of the American Rose Society is the largest park in the United States devoted to America's national flower - the Rose. Visitors experience nature at its finest with winding paths, babbling fountains and thousands of glorious roses. The Gardens of the American Rose Society at the American Rose Center in Shreveport, Louisiana are in a naturalistic, park-like setting and are composed of many different rose gardens. There are gardens devoted to the All-America Rose Selections, Miniature Roses, single petaled roses, the nation's newest hybrids and 62 "backyard" rose gardens.

The Gardens also serve as a Trial Ground for amateur hybridizers and as the American Rose Society Miniature Rose Test Garden.

2006 Coughton Court ..... Alcester, England
www.coughtoncourt.co.uk/garden-rose-labyrinth.html

The superb new flower garden was opened in 1996 in what was the old walled garden of the Throckmorton Estate. It is here that most of the roses grow - over 100 cultivars of old roses and around 40 modern varieties. They are complemented by plantings of shrubs, herbaceous and tender perennials, all contributing to a breathtaking spectacle of colour, shape and texture.

2006 Roseraie Internationale du Parc de la Tête d'Or ... Lyon, France

The park was created in 1857, and the first international rose trials were held here in 1931. Today the rose garden contains 400 cultivars of roses and 35,000 plants

2006 Centenary Rose Garden ..... Tamil Nadu, India

The Centenary Rose Garden is on the slopes of the Elk Hills and covers an area of 4 hectares, divided over five curving terraces. The present collections contains 20,000 plants of 2800 cultivars.

The garden has a unique "tropical mountain climate" for rose growing, with rainfall distributed throughout the year and not much change in temperature. This provides an unbelievably long flowering season, and thousands of visitors throng there throughout the year, even in winter.

2006 Bara Koen (The Rose Park) ..... Fukuyama City, Japan

Fukuyama is known as the "City of Roses" and Bara Koen is a favorite resort of its citizens. The park, begun in 1956, was the starting point of this "City of Roses" and has played a leading role in its development. It features a well-balanced arrangement of climbing roses, Hybrid Teas, Floribundas and "International Corners" consisting of beds each displaying roses raised in a particular country.

2006 ..... Utsubo Koen: Bara (Utsubo Park - The Rose Garden)..... Osaka, Japan

The Rose Garden in Utsubo Park is the most outstanding rose garden in Osaka. Begun in 1952 as a post-war reconstruction project, the garden was extensively renovated in 2003. The renewed Rose Garden was expanded to 9,000 square metres and contains 3,200 roses in 151 varieties. These range from the wild roses of Japanese and Oriental origin to present-day roses. Colorful, labeled roses are displayed in a natural and harmonious arrangement under the theme "natural and casual". The Rose Garden functions as an urban oasis for the citizens of Osaka.

2006 Westerbroekpark..... Den Haag, Netherlands

n addition to being a beautiful example of an English landscaped style of park, Westerbroekpark is renowned for its international rose trials. New varieties of roses not yet in commerce are submitted from around the world for testing for a period of two years. In addition, varieties already in commerce are planted in the rosary - each in a separate plot- where they are observed for three years. The city of The Hague awards certificates to the outstanding roses in each category, and these certificate winners compete for the highest award, The Golden Rose of The Hague.

2006 The Roger's Rose Garden ..... Hamilton, New Zealand
www.hamiltongardens.co.nz/index.asp?pageID=2145827362 - rogers-rose-garden

Roger's Rose Garden is part of the Hamilton Gardens, whose theme is "the story of gardens". In Roger's Rose Garden this theme is addressed through the rose collections demonstrating the history and development of the rose from species to the latest varieties.

Surrounded by mature specimen trees, the garden is on undulating land beside the mighty Waikato River. The garden contains large informal beds of Hybrid Teas and Floribundas planted for mass colour, complemented by large lawn areas and single specimen trees with a backdrop of climbing roses displayed on frames, weeping roses on hoops and procumbent roses in a bed near the garden entrance

2006 Ramon Ortis Rosaleda..... Madrid, Spain

Ramon Ortis Roselada is a magnificent, formal rose garden containing 500 cultivars and 15,000 plants. It was contructed and planted in 1956, and is the home of the Madrid International Rose Trials.

2006 Roseraie du Parc de la Grange ..... Geneva, Switzerland

Roseraie du Parc de la Grange was built in 1944 and has been the site of an International Rose Trials since 1947. This beautiful garden overlooking Lake Geneva contains 360 cultivars of roses and 12,000 plants. Each year 100 to 120 new roses are planted in the trial garden.

2006 Washington Park International Rose Test Garden Portland, United States of America
www.portlandonline.com/parks/finder/index.cfm?action=ViewPark&PropertyID=1113

In 1901 Portland, Oregon adopted the designation "the City of Roses" and the first Rose Festival was held in 1907. Washington Park International Test Garden has over 7500 plants comprised of 550 varieties of roses. The garden serves as a backdrop for many community events, Rose Festival programs, Portland's Best Rose Trials, the Gold Award Trials, the All American Rose Selection Trials and the Award of Excellence Miniature Rose Trials.

2006 The Pageant of Roses Garden ..... Whittier, United States of America
www.rosehills.com/eventsContent/rosePageant.aspx

The Pageant of Roses Garden was established over 50 years ago, and today boasts approximately 10,000 plants and 300 cultivars in a creative landscape of over 70 beds. Incorporated into the overall garden design are test garden areas displaying future varieties currently under test by the All-America Rose Selections (AARS) and the American Rose Society Award of Excellence Miniature program (AOE). Previous winners of these prestigious awards are displayed throughout the garden.

In 2000 the garden initiated the first ever International Rose Trials in the USA and has quickly gained international recognition for the quality and maintenance of the entries among breeders and introducers alike.

2007 La Roseraie de Bagatelle ..... Paris, France
www.v1.paris.fr/fr/environnement/jardins/liste_jardins/parc_bagatelle/roses_bagatelle.pdf

The castle Bagatelle, built by the Comte d'Artois in 1777, and the surrounding lands were acquired by the City of Paris in 1905. The Commissioner of Gardens for Paris at the time, Jean-Claude Nicholas Forestier, built the Roseraie. It is laid out in strict French style, and today boasts more than 9000 roses and over 1000 varieties. It also contains a wonderful collection of antique and species roses.

In 1907 M. Forestier organized the first international competition for new roses. This prestigious event has been held every June since then, and in 2007 celebrated its 100th anniversary

2006 Climbing Roses of the World

Author: Charles Quest-Ritson
Publisher: Timber Press, Portland, Oregon, United States of America – Cambridge, United Kingdom
Year: 2003
Language: English
ISBN: 0-88192-563-2

Illustrated with 200 photographs, this book describes the nearly 1600 old and new climbing roses still in cultivation, of which some 400 are available commercially around the world. A personal judgment is almost always expressed, as this is not an impersonal catalogue, but the work of a connoisseur who has minutely observed, compared and evaluated.

2006 De elegantie en de roos

Author: Ivo Pauwels
Publisher: Lannoo Terra, Belgium
Year: 2000
Language: Dutch and French
ISBN: 90-209-3919-X

This book tells the story of the Lens family and, more specifically, that of the life and work of the Belgian hybridizer, Louis Lens (1924-1991.) While he bred many famous roses, including the Hall of Fame winner 'Pascali', Louis Lens devoted much of the last 25 years of his life to the breeding of musk hybrids.

2006 Designing with Roses

Author: Tony Lord
Publisher: Francis Lincoln Ltd. (United Kingdom, Germany, Sweden, United States of America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand)
Year: 1999
Language: English, German, Swedish
ISBN: Hardcover – 0711212910
Softcover – 0711217149

This book explores all the possibilities of using roses in the garden. After chapters on the heritage of the rose and rose gardens, sections detail the use of roses on structures, as punctuation points in the garden, in mixed borders and in wild gardens.

2006 The Joy of Roses

Author: James Young with David Ruston
Publisher: 4CPublishers Pty Limited, Australia
Year: 2004
Language: English
ISBN: 09752-3400-5

This book offers a commonsense guide to growing roses by James Young, in consultation with David Ruston, one of the world's leading rosarians. Each of the 800 photos in the book is well described and has been photographed by James using the latest digital technology.

2006 La Rose de France

Author: François Joyaux
Publisher: Imprimerie Nationale, France
Year: 1998
Language: French
ISBN: 2743302518

This book throws new light on the history of Rosa gallica as La Rose de France. Based on meticulous research into contemporary catalogues and archives, and careful comparisons of Gallica collections in France and elsewhere, it gives detailed descriptions and history of the 200 or so varieties that still survive today. This is the definitive working reference book on Rosa gallica.

2006 Spirit of the Rose

Author: David Lloyd and Annie Beagent
Publisher: Spirit of the Rose Ltd., United Kingdom
Year: 2004
Language: English
ISBN: 09543939-0-2

This book describes the many different relationships that people have with the rose. Fascinating contributions from a diverse group of writers provide a wonderful tapestry to illustrate the meaning of the "Spirit of the Rose", fully illustrated with fine rose photography by David Lloyd. Contributing authors range from Shakespeare to Robert Burns to Thomas Moore to modern day gardeners, hobbyists and professionals. All amplify the many interpretations of the message, "Spirit of the Rose".

2009 All About Roses

Author: Dr. Tommy Cairns
Publisher: Meredith Books (Ortho Books), United States of America
Year: 2007
Language: English
ISBN: 978-0-696-23217-6

This book presents expert growing techniques together with a comprehensive guide to more than 350 of the best roses for the garden. It is the best-selling rose book in North America and is specially directed to encourage and promote rose growing amongst the general public. This latest edition has been updated and expanded to include the latest and most exciting developments in rose breeding.

2009 Indigenous & Wild Roses of Pakistan

Author: Dr. Mahmooda Hashmi (Mrs.)
Publisher: Dr. Mahmooda Hashmi, Pakistan
Year: 2006
Language: English

This book covers in detail the various dimensions pertaining to Pakistan's treasure of wild and indigenous roses as well as its age-old rose culture. The first section of the book deals with the "indigenous" roses of Pakistan (such as Rosa damascena) that have been grown on a mass scale for centuries. The second section covers the wild roses of Pakistan and where today more than 33 named species have been identified.

2009 Lyon-Rose

Author: Pierrick Eberhard
Publisher: Editions Lyonnaises D'art et D'histoire, France
Year: 2007
Language: French
ISBN: 978-978-2841-47-6

This book explores all aspects of the three-century love affair (1796-2006) between the city of Lyon and the Rose. It looks at its many famous hybridizers, its three most famous roses 'La France', 'Soleil D'Or and 'Peace', the creation of the French Rose Society in 1896, the current renaissance in Old Garden Roses, roses in painting and much more. It also contains 400 photos and original documents.

2009 The Quest for the Black Rose

Author: Ingrid Verdegem, Anne Ronse, Anne-Sophia Rondeau
Publisher: Stichting Kunstboek, Belgium, in association with Ulmer Verlag, Germany
Year: 2006
Language: Dutch, German, English
ISBN: 978-90-5856-159-6

This book attempts to write the history of the black rose from three separate angles. The first is the history of dark roses from their very first traces in herbals and Middle Ages images right up to the dark Hybrid Teas of the 1950s. The second is an explanation of the genetics of color pigments of roses and why 'black' flowers are so difficult to create. The third section highlights present day dark roses and the hybridizers behind them. Garden roses and cut roses are both discussed.

2009 Rose Art

Author: Anne-Sophia Rondeau
Publisher: Rustica, France
Year: 2008
Language: Dutch, German, English
ISBN: 978-2-84038-796-1

This book consists of forty imaginative floral compositions, created by six leading French florists (J.F. Bouchet-Odent, T. Boutin, R. Eberwein, A. Lechantre, H. Pothier and G. Moulis) using roses in unusual places, in bouquets and in other unusual ways. The inspiration for this book was Nature itself.

2009 Rosenwelten

Author: Bernd Weigel, Klaus-Jürgen Strobel, Thomas Marschall, Sabine Kübler, Helle Brumme, Eilike Vemmer, Peter Pfliegensdörfer, Volker Wissemann
Publisher: German Rose Society, Germany
Year: 2008
Language: German

This book was published on the occasion of the 125th anniversary of the German Rose Society. It outlines the history of roses and rose breeding in Germany, the history of the German Rose Society and the most important rose personalities along the way.

2009 TEA Roses - Old Roses for Warm Gardens

Author: Lynne Chapman, Noelene Drage, Di Durston, Jenny Jones, Hillary Merrifield, Billy West
Publisher: Rosenberg Publishing Pty Ltd., Australia
Year: 2008
Language: English
ISBN: 978-1-877058-67-7

Teas - once almost forgotten - are now being acclaimed as superb roses for warm gardens. Bred for a century or so from 1820, they were descended mainly from Chinese garden hybrids introduced into Europe in the early nineteenth century. Teas brought characteristics that had not been seen before in European roses. These included an intriguing multi-layered fragrance; a new range of colours; a higher-centred flower shape; gently nodding heads; and a bushy, twiggy growth habit. Even more importantly, the Teas whose ancestors came from temperate to subtropical areas of China bloomed almost continuously in favourable conditions and did not need a dormant period. The authors aim to bring together the observations and knowledge they have accumulated about the Teas and to tell something of their past history. The authors grow most of the Teas known in Australia, and these are a large proportion of those commercially available elsewhere. Consequently, the information given about them will be relevant wherever these roses are grown.

BREEDERS' CLUB

The WFRS Breeders' Club was established in 2007. Its members are professional rose breeders, most of whom take part in international rose trials.

Their presence within the WFRS establishes direct contact between amateur rose growers and professionals, thus complying with one of the aims of the WFRS: "to encourage and advance international cooperation on all matters concerning the rose".

Members meet once a month. At these meetings a guest speaker gives a talk on a rose-related subject. An annual Magazine is published and, since 1998, biannual bulletins are also published.

The highlight of the year is the Spring Show, which is held toward the end of October. There will be no Autumn Show this year. Instead, in April we will have a non-competitive educational exhibition to show the public how to grow roses here and how to use roses in the landscape. We also offer our members visits to private gardens, nurseries and museums.

To date we have four branches in the interior of Argentina. These are in Córdoba, Mar del Plata, Mendoza and San Juan. They also hold annual shows.

Fees: Regular Member $180
Associate Member .....$ 50
Professional.....$180

The National Rose Society of Australia is comprised of five State Rose Societies. It is the practice for each State of Australia to provide the President of the National Rose Society of Australia in succession on an annual basis.

We request that any correspondence be directed to the Honorary Secretary, who will distribute it promptly to our five State organizations.

Each State Society conducts an annual Spring Rose Show and an Autumn Rose Show. Owing to the very wide differences in the climates of our States, the timetables for these events vary as follows:

Spring Shows	Queensland	early October
	New South Wales	mid to late October
	Victoria	early November
	South Australia	October
	Western Australia	October
Autumn Shows	Queensland	May
	New South Wales	March and April
	Victoria	April
	South Australia	April
	Western Australia	April

There are many gardens in Australia. Some are open from Spring to Autumn. Others open very rarely, and a number are by appointment only. Please contact the National Secretary for lists of Gardens and Nurseries and their open dates.

With the aim of encouraging all activities concerning knowledge and love of roses, M. Georges van Oost founded the Society in 1926

Special events, organised visits to rose gardens and lectures are communicated in our Newsletters.

Members receive one publication a year, called Rosa Belgica, with many articles and information concerning the Rose. Two to three Newsletters are also provided.

The Society supports rose trials and all other events concerning the Rose. We were one of the founding members of the World Federation of Rose Societies.

Both professional rosarians and amateurs are members of the Society.

The Bermuda Rose Society has about 200 members. Since Bermuda is an island about 700 miles from the U.S. coastline in the Atlantic Ocean, remote from other influences, it has been called a living museum of roses. Roses were brought to the island by ships travelling from all over the world. Our main goal is to protect Bermuda's rose heritage. We are mainly interested in Old Garden Roses.

Each year the Bermuda Rose Society raises about 500 slips of our Old Garden Roses, which we sell – this is the major fund raising activity of the Society. We also donate roses to Government and to the Bermuda National Trust for parks and public gardens

The Society meets monthly from October through May, usually on the first Friday of the month at the Horticultural Hall in the Bermuda Botanical Gardens in Paget. Besides the business of the Society there is a monthly competition of cut roses and rose arrangements, and often a guest speaker. The Bermuda Rose Society usually invites one overseas guest speaker each year. Any rosarian visitors are welcome to attend.

The Society is working on a revision and update of our rose book, Roses in Bermuda, which was published in 1997 and now is completely sold out. The Society maintains a Repository Garden of Old Garden Roses in the grounds of Waterville, the headquarters of the Bermuda National Trust. It is also a participant in the Earthkind Project. The roses we have chosen for this are 'Vincent Godsiff', 'Smith's Parish', 'Spice', 'Maitland White', 'Mutabilis' and 'Carefree Beauty'.

As a prerequisite for membership, all persons must attend two meetings prior to submitting an application that is supported by two existing members. We do not accept foreign membership. The Society issues approximately four newsletters per session for its members

Fees: $30.00 per year
Life Membership: $250 (may be applied for after 10 years)

The Rose Society of Ontario was founded in 1913 in Toronto by a group of dedicated ladies. Men were admitted in 1918, and by 1954 membership had spread across the country. To reflect that fact our name was officially changed to the Canadian Rose Society.

We have members from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean and from the 49th parallel in the south to the Northwest Territories in the north. Because our members are so widely spread out, our publications are a very important link. The Rose Annual is published in September, the magazine, The Rosarian, is published once a year and the newsletter, The CommPoster is published five times a year.

The Asociación Chilena de la Rosa was established in 1998. It has about 28 active members, mainly in the central part of Chile. We hope to add more members from other parts of our long country by spreading knowledge about roses and increasing interest in the cultivation of roses around the country.

During the winter of 2000 we planted a new bed of Large Flowered Roses in Rosedal Parque Araucano in the Municipality of Las Condes. This rose garden is mainly maintained by members of our Society.

The China Rose Society was established in 1986 and is named after Rosa chinensis. It is based in Laizhou City in the province of Shandong, which is located in the central region of China, west of the Yellow Sea. The region has four seasons and the climate is very mild. The city is famous as the home of the Chinese rose, Rosa chinensis, which grows all over the nation. In fact, 52 cities now have the Rose as their official flower.

In addition to the President, the China Rose Society has several honorary Presidents, seven Vice-Presidents, each representing a different area of the country, and one federal Vice-President. It promotes the exchange of scientific information, production and research. More than 700 varieties of roses have been identified in China and the China Rose Society recently published a Rose Directory. A major centre for research and the development of new rose varieties has been set up in the suburbs of Beijing. In addition, five other centres have been set up around the country. Together they form a national system to assist with the registration and identification of roses and with new Chinese varieties entering the world market.

An Annual Rose Festival has been held in Laizhou every May 25 since 1990, and you are all cordially invited to attend. The China Rose Society also publishes an annual magazine.

The Czech Rose Club was founded in 1968 in Prague as a specialized group of the Czech Union of Allotment and Leisure Gardeners (CUALG). It now has approximately 300 members across the country.

Its bulletin, Zpravodaj, is published twice a year. An Annual Meeting is held in the late winter and a Summer Meeting is also held.

The International Contest of New Roses at Hradec Králové is organized by the Czech Rose Club and financed by the municipal authorities. For information contact Dr. Stanislav Konštacký at konstackys@seznam.cz

We are happy to report that the world renowned Rose Park at Lidice, which is part of the Memorial for the village of Lidice destroyed by the Nazis in 1942, was reconstructed in 2002 with the aid of international support. Information can be found at www.lidice-memorial.cz

Each January the Indian Rose Federation, in collaboration with a local rose society, organizes a national rose convention in a different city. The convention includes a competitive rose show with roses entered from all over India, seminars, workshops, lectures and visits to rose gardens in the area. The Indian Rose Annual, edited by Girija and M.S. (Viru) Viraraghavan, is released at the convention.

There are 19 Rose Societies under the umbrella of the Indian Rose Federation.

The Japan Rose Society was founded in 1948 and became a juridical foundation in 1962, authorized by the Ministry of Agriculture. The purposes of the Society are to encourage people to plant roses throughout the country, to preserve a pleasant environment and to promote the exchange of information on roses among rose lovers of the world.

The Japan Rose Society conducts International Rose Trials every year in cooperation with Tokyo Metropolis at the Jindai Botanical Garden. It publishes a monthly journal, Rose Letter, and an Annual Report for its members. It also gives national and local Rose Exhibitions in spring and autumn. A unique activity of the Society is to provide a newly bred rose for its members every spring.

Fees: Regular members .....¥ 10,000 annually

Founded in 1980, the Luxembourg Rose Society has 200 regular members. The number of young people is increasing.

Most LRS members are amateur gardeners who grow roses as a hobby for their own pleasure. Members receive the Rousenzeitung - le journal de la rose, a full colour magazine in French and German, four times a year. Each year lectures are given by foreign rosarians and other specialists. We also provide assistance and advice to novice rosarians.

Fees: €11 per year

Thirty-three District Rose Societies in New Zealand are affiliated with the New Zealand Rose Society Inc. So, in effect, the National body is a "Head Office". The National body provides each member in New Zealand with:

- Cultural Handbook
- New Zealand RoseReview
- New Zealand Rose Annual

A Spring Convention and a smaller Autumn Convention are held in different parts of New Zealand each year. Overseas tours are occasionally organised by the National body.

District Societies also provide members with monthly meetings, a local newsletter, garden visits and occasional field days and/or seminars. Some District Societies also arrange discounts at various garden related shops and some purchase fertilizer and sell it to members at wholesale prices.

"Rose Ranfurly Shields" are competed for by a group of District Societies (from six to ten.) Roses are pooled and entered in the name of a Society rather than by an individual.

Fees: The cost of membership is set by each District Society and varies from NZ$25 to NZ$35 per couple per year. Individual membership is usually NZ$2 less. Overseas members may join The National Rose Society of New Zealand Inc. for NZ$40.

The Rose Society of Northern Ireland enjoys the support of rosarians mainly resident in Ireland, but also from other parts of the British Isles. The Society's objectives are to educate about the cultivation of the rose and to disseminate knowledge of the rose, its species and cultivars.

Lectures are held in Belfast throughout the winter months, along with one lecture in a different provincial town each season. The summer programme includes two Rose Shows and involvement in the City of Belfast Rose Week, along with the International Trials at Sir Thomas and Lady Dixon Park.

Two newsletters are produced each year, one for each of the programme periods referred to above. Members are able to avail themselves of all the above and also enjoy the benefits of personal involvement.

Information about the Society and new rose information is provided on the Internet at www.rosemerald.co.uk

Fees: £10.00 annually

The Norwegian Rose Society (NRS) was founded in 1982 in association with the Norwegian Horticultural Society. Today it is an independent Society and also part of the Nordic Rose Society.

Our aim is to promote interest in and knowledge of garden roses. The NRS has a centrally elected board of six members from the Oslo area, five local divisions and ten other contact people from all over Norway. Since 1994, a paid secretary has been contracted to ease the workload of Board members. The NRS has over 1250 members.

Our publication, Rosebladet, is issued four times a year. In addition, meetings, lectures, courses and tours are arranged every year. The main Rose Show is held in Oslo in early July and includes a competitive exhibition of roses in several classes. This main event of our year can draw several thousand people and is a welcome source of income for the Society.

A demonstration Rose Garden was founded in 1990 at Tomb Agricultural School, near Moss, south of Oslo. Its aim is to show the public a "Living Rose Catalogue". The roses are purchased, but many new varieties are sent to us for evaluation by noted firms in Europe. Today we have nearly 400 different varieties, including historic roses and well-known Norwegian shrub roses.

Fees: NOK 250

The Association was established in December 1990 at Cluj-Napoca, Romania, with 30 members. We now have 1700 members. There are 14 branches (district societies), located primarily in the western part of the country, but the last, Bucharest, is in the south east. The headquarters is in Cluj-Napoca. The activities in these branches include pruning demonstrations, rose exhibitions, slide and video presentations about roses in the country and abroad, visits to rose gardens, symposiums and participation in our Annual General Meetings and WFRS conventions and regional conferences.

The society bulletin, ROSARIUM, is published twice a year. Each issue consists of 24-28 polychrome pages and 4 colour cover pages. It also has a short summary in English since the publication is sent to 23 other national Rose Societies with whom we try to exchange publications.

Fees: Romanians - $4 (US)

Roses appeared in Russia in the middle of the 17th century in the gardens of the Tsar Mikhail Fedorovitch, and until the 19th century they were only grown in the gardens of the nobility. Roses became widespread in the 20th century. First orchards that specialized in industrial rose cultivation were established. Large collections of roses were created in the main botanic garden of the Russian Academy of Sciences in Moscow and in the Nikitskiy botanic garden in the USSR period. New cultivars were created and technology for the advancement of rose culture in northern regions was developed in the institutes of scientific research. Unfortunately due to limited financing for such scientific work, the development of new Russian cultivars fell behind much of the rest of the world. But it is our hope to now establish rose gardens and bring the newest roses to people in Russia. In 2010 two new cultivars of roses were created in Russia at the Botanical Garden Institute of Vladivostok – "Ussurochka" and "Helga"

The Russian Association of Rosarians was established under the auspices of the World Federation of Rose Societies, led by WFRS President Gérald Meylan. Russia joined the WFRS on May 7, 2007 and the Russian Association of Rosarians became its 37th member. It presently has more than 300 members and approximately 10,000 people from all over Russia receive its published material. Monthly symposiums and seminars are held and we take part in various flower shows and design rose gardens in Moscow and the surrounding region. Seminar topics include the advantages and disadvantages of modern methods of rose growing, traditional varieties and novelties, proven eco-friendly methods of insect and disease control, how to withstand climate change, pruning and winter protection. Our aim is to assure amateur rosarians that the cultivation of roses is not complex if one works with love.

The Russian Association of Rosarians was established as a non-commercial organization. It has its own rose orchard and plans to hold rose competitions in the near future. The majority of its members are enthusiastic amateur rosarians, both those who are beginners and those who have been cultivating roses for a long time. They want to broaden their knowledge of roses and to know more about the rose novelties in the world.

The Russian Association of Rosarians has issued a new journal called The Name of the Rose. It deals with growing roses in the moderate climate areas of Russia and the various possible mistakes when growing these sensitive flowers. Founded upon the experiences of the Association's specialists, the journal reveals simple and proven methods of designing gardens using the newest of the world's rose varieties.

Membership in the Russian Association of Rosarians is open to everyone. There is an annual fee of 3000 rubles.

Members receive the Association bulletin, information material, brochures, articles, invitations to exhibitions, and access to consultations for all rose questions. They also can take part in trials, seminars and training programs.

The goals of the Russian Association of Rosarians are:

- advancement of rose culture in Russia
- registration of all roses cultivated in Russia
- organization of annual rose exhibitions and competitions
- assessment of the rose stock marketed in Russia
- gathering and disseminating information on world rose novelties
- organizing meetings of amateur and professional rose growers
- printing an annual Bulletin, the journal The Name of a Rose and other rose-related material
- holding symposiums and seminars on roses
- selecting and introduce the best foreign cultivars for Russia
- developing contacts with foreign rose associations
- assisting members in buying roses and establishing their own rose gardens

The Royal Serbian Rose Society (Kraljevsko Udruzenje Ljubitelja Ruza Srbije) was founded in May 2008. It is dedicated to rose growing and the preservation of old varieties of roses. The Society promotes love for roses and offers companionship, information on the latest varieties, and rose growing tips to all rose lovers. It offers its members an annual magazine, rose events and an annual visit to the Royal Palace gardens in Belgrade.

The patron of the Society is HRH Crown Prince Alexander II.

The Society, as a registered citizens' organization, aims to share the knowledge of roses and proper rose growing by means of education, training, trials, publications, and promotion of display gardens.

The Society, where possible, provides help with any rose related problems, from finding a specific rose through to identifying roses as well as providing general and specific rose care advice.

The functions of ROSA KLUB Slovakia are to create appropriate conditions for the cultivation of roses for its members, to beautify the environment, to organise exhibitions of roses, to develop co-operation and common undertakings with similar specialized organizations at home and abroad, and to organize expert lectures, training courses, and excursions to domestic and foreign rose gardens.

Rosa Klub publishes a member periodical Beauty of Roses and Shapes. It also maintains a library, which incorporates foreign expert rose literature. The goal of the ROSA KLUB Slovakia is the advancement of rose growing. Our activities include:

- lectures
- practical lectures and training
- visits to rose gardens
- rose shows
- excursions
- Beauty of Roses and Shapes - our magazine, which is distributed to our members

The ROSA KLUB has built up a long tradition of rose shows in Zvolen, Dolna Krupa, Dunajska Luzna and in other cities of Slovakia. The all-Slovakian rose shows are usually held in June.

Fees: 7€ per year, 28 € per year foreign

The Swedish Rose Society was founded in 1987. There are approximately 1200 members, many organized in one of the 12 local groups located from Skåne in the south to Medelpad in the north. The groups have their own program activities and meetings, advertised in Rosenbladet and on the society homepage. The Swedish Rose Society is also a member of the Nordic Rose Society.

Rosenbladet is issued four times a year, in February, April, August and November. This journal is the most important membership benefit and is all in colour. Because Sweden is such a long country with very diverse climatic conditions, the journal aims at giving advice on rose growing to members from all parts of the country. For instance, it includes an annual survey sent in by members, evaluating the health and hardiness of their roses.

In addition, the society organizes conferences, lectures and tours to public and private rose gardens in Sweden and abroad.

The Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences, Swedish Biodiversity Centre, is responsible for the work related to POM, Programme for Diversity of Cultivated Plants. This programme aims at identifying and preserving cultivated plants in general. The rose project, started during 2004, aims at identifying and preserving old cultivated roses in Sweden. The Swedish Rose Society and its members, together with rose gardens, botanic gardens, museums, etc., take a large part in this work by identifying and locating cultivated roses that can be of interest for POM.

Fees: 225 SEK per year

The Royal National Rose Society is the world's oldest specialist plant society. It maintains the world famous Gardens of the Rose at its St. Albans, UK home, including the RNRS International Trial Ground.

The newly designed and replanted Gardens of the Rose opened in June 2007 to considerable acclaim. They will of course remain a work in progress for some time to come, and more roses, companion plants and shrubs were added in 2008 and 2009.

The Society publishes a journal for members - The Rose - and handbooks on growing and selecting roses. It is also associated with several National Rose Shows each year.

Members may call on a free advisory service on all rose problems. Members of the Society particularly interested in heritage roses may join its Historic Roses Group.

Organized in 1892, the American Rose Society is the largest special plant society in the United States. We have more than 20,000 regular and affiliate members and over 350 affiliated local rose societies. Most ARS members are amateur gardeners who grow roses as a hobby for their own pleasure. Members are found in all 50 states.

The American Rose Society offers the following services to its members:

- The American Rose, a bi-monthly, full-color magazine published 5 times a year
- The American Rose Annual, which has been published annually since 1916
- The Handbook for Selecting Roses, published annually - ratings of all roses commercially available, tabulated from hundreds of individual reports from across the country
- Cooperative research programs on rose problems at colleges and experimental stations
- Sponsors two National Rose Conventions and Rose Shows each year
- Maintains the rose registration system, and has been delegated by the International Horticultural Congress as the International Cultivator Registration Authority for Roses
- A Consulting Rosarian Program - a network of more than 2,200 expert amateur rose gardeners around the country who provide assistance and advice to novice rosarians

The Uruguayan Rose Society was founded in Montevideo in 1983 by an enthusiastic group of Garden Club members who were particularly interested in roses and wished to intensify their knowledge and culture in our country. There are now three Affiliate societies, one in Punta del Este, Maldonado , one in Tarariras, Colonia in the West and a newly created one in Dolores in the West of the country.

As detailed on our website, our Society has the following program of activities:

- Monthly members' meetings with select lecturers from local, regional and foreign societies and rose growers
- Annual Spring Rose Show
- Pruning workshops
- Visits to private gardens
- Annual outings in Uruguay and neighbouring countries
- Organized group visits to World Rose events
- Rose market sales
- Circulating rose library
- Email rose enquiries
- Welcome gift for newcomers

Our Annual Report and Bulletin, both in Spanish and English, is handed out to all members free of charge, and is sent to all WFRS member countries, affiliates and to Rose friends around the world. Our association in turn receives publications from other WFRS member countries and often regrets that such interesting and useful foreign information has not been translated into English, the official WFRS language.

Membership: We have three categories: Active members, Camp members and Family members.

Fees: Active Members:.....$55 US
Camp Member: .....$25 US
Family Members.....$80 US
